PRESS RELEASE

Date: May 4, 2010

Winners have been selected from the Capt. Nathan Hale Middle School in Coventry for the 38th Annual Paul G. Keough Earth Artists Program sponsored by the United States Environmental Protection Agency. Hundreds of students from all over New England in kindergarten through sixth grade entered the poem and poster contest. Grade 6 Coventry students Austin Gallimore, Brady Dutton, Danastalgia McDermott, Jake Michaels, Reilly Keenan, Camryn Sarles, David Feltenberger, Rhett Rogers, Charles Riordan, Emma Grimaldi, Patrick Walker, and Rachael Dumais won in the poem category. Grade 6 students Morgan Palmer, Hannah Kloo, and Lexi Chmielecki won in the poster category. The students will be honored at a recognition ceremony at The University of Hartford's Lincoln Theater in Hartford on May 27. Teachers included in this project are Laura Myslinski and Adrienne Manzone.

If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact either Laura Myslinski at the Capt. Nathan Hale Middle School at 860-742-7334, Ext. 388 or Adrienne Manzone at Ext. 396.
